WellPoint Inc.

Angela Braly is chair of the board of directors, president and chief executive officer of WellPoint, Inc., one of the nation's largest health benefits companies in terms of medical membership, with approximately 34 million—or one in nine—Americans nationwide covered through its affiliated health plans. WellPoint offers leading health benefits plans as well as specialty products and services designed to provide quality and value to its customers.

In 2010, WellPoint generated operating revenue in excess of $57.8 billion and employed approximately 37,500 associates. WellPoint primarily does business as Anthem Blue Cross, Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Georgia or Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield, and its mission is to improve the lives of the people it serves and the health of its communities.

Ms. Braly was named president and chief executive officer in June 2007 and assumed the role of chair of the board in March 2010. Under Ms. Braly's leadership, WellPoint's commitment to its mission has been strengthened by diversifying its business portfolio to offer more innovative and comprehensive health solutions and through focusing on creating the best health care value by making health care fundamentally more affordable, providing access and guidance to the right care and advocating healthy living.

Ms. Braly has directed the company's strategy, including the expansion of its integrated care management programs and tools; the divestiture of WellPoint's prescription benefits management business to Express Scripts, Inc. in order to provide customers with more cost-effective solutions as well as enhanced services; the increased transparency through the Anthem Care Comparison tool to provide medical cost information to customers; and the measurement of the progress made in improving the quality of care that members and communities receive through a proprietary Member Health Index.

Prior to becoming CEO, Ms. Braly served as executive vice president, general counsel and chief public affairs officer for WellPoint. In this role, she was responsible for public policy development, government relations, legal affairs, corporate communications, marketing and social responsibility initiatives. She also managed WellPoint's National Government Services subsidiary.

Ms. Braly was previously president and CEO of Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Missouri, managing all aspects of the business and setting strategies to exceed customer needs. She joined Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield in January 1999, as general counsel, overseeing the company's legal affairs and government relations, after serving for several years as a lawyer in private practice.

Ms. Braly also serves on the board of directors of The Procter & Gamble Company, the Blue Cross Blue Shield Association (BCBSA) and the National Institute for Health Care Management (NIHCM). In addition, she is a member of Business Roundtable, The Business Council, and the Harvard Health Care Policy Advisory Council.

Ms. Braly received her juris doctor from Southern Methodist University School of Law and her undergraduate degree from Texas Tech University.
